

NOTICE TO THE GENERAL PUBLIC

London, UK - April 18, 2024: London Academy Business School is thrilled to announce the groundbreaking first-ever maiden visit of the National University Commission (NUC) to the University of Sunderland in the UK today, as part of the final steps of the Transnational Education Accreditation (TNE) process.

During the visit, the Acting Executive Secretary, Mr. Chris Maiyaki, emphasized the NUC's commitment to achieving parity in the relationship between institutions. Mr. Maiyaki highlighted the importance of ensuring that the quality of curriculum delivery is consistent across all educational partners, and that pricing models are fair and comparable to both private and public universities.

The University of Sunderland demonstrated meticulous preparation for the visit, showcasing its dedication to meeting the standards set forth by the NUC. Mr. Maiyaki and the NUC team were pleased with the University's commitment to excellence and the collaborative efforts with London Academy Business School.

As the NUC await the final documents and response to the visit to the University of Sunderland and London Academy Business School, for further scrutiny, the Dean and CEO of London Academy Business School reiterated their unwavering commitment to providing quality education with an affordable pricing policy.

This milestone visit marks a significant moment in reshaping the educational landscape, emphasizing the importance of quality education and fair pricing in transnational partnerships.

London Academy Business School expresses gratitude to the NUC for their guidance and feedback throughout the accreditation process and looks forward to the positive impact of this collaboration on the educational community.
